With 32 pages of photos. " The facts in this book are the findings of hundreds of hours of relentless research. It all began with the random conversations Nelson Eddy had with the father of one of the authors, in which he spoke candidly about his life and goals. The surprising bits of information he revealed were verified by the other author through Jeanette MacDonald's sister, Blossom Rock. The realization came that we were sitting on a story, and we began to dig deeper. Although both Jeanette and Nelson were gone, we attempted to contact the many other people who had known them. To our surprise, we were suddenly the enemy, and numerous doors were abruptly slammed in our faces. Despite this suspicious attitude, we persisted. We finally were able to reach a half-dozen people who grudgingly consented to talk to us. The startlingly vivid truths that came out in bits and pieces led to the writing of this book." --- excerpt from Author's Preface
