Two hundred years in the future, a routine chronetic sampling goes awry and intern Dani Adams steps out of her observation box to discover that the timestream has been altered. In the new reality, her best friend's son, seven-year-old Jored Wallace, has never been born, and Dani is the only one who remembers that he ever existed.

Lexil Myles is a talented young researcher whose studies in time distortion reveal an alarming discovery: An unusual temporal disturbance threatens the integrity of time. His hunt for the source of the disruption leads him to Dani.

Drawn together, with only days to come up with a solution, they face blackmail, violence, and political intrigue. But if they do find an answer, it will return them to a world in which they never met.
